Youths from Single-Parent Families: What to know & How to help

Youths from Single-Parent Families: What to know & How to help

Are we aware of the challenges the youths are facing today? How are they managing the changes that take place in their family? What kind of support is available for youths when they are faced with the challenges and changes in their life?

The symposium aims to highlight some of the challenges faced by the youths from single-parent families and how the different community stakeholders can come together to help the youths to cope with the changes.

There will be a panel of experienced professionals from voluntary welfare organizations and schools to share their experiences working with the youths. They will share ways of helping the youths from single-parent families to cope with changes and challenges.

About the Keynote Speaker

Dr. Angela Tsun On-Kee has many years of experience in the social work arena in Hong Kong, especially with regards to children and youths.

In the past 20 years, Angela had conducted a number of seminars/workshops/courses on counseling skills, parenting skills, child abuse and child protection, family therapy, and narrative ideas. Her research interests include child development, child abuse, parent-child relationship, self-esteem, and narrative practice.

In 2005, Angela was appointed the Associate Director of Centre for Youth Research and Practice, Hong Kong Baptist University.

Currently, Angela is serving the Department of Social Work, Hong Kong Baptist University, as Associate Head, Associate Professor and Fieldwork Director.
